sisted by the crowd." They were promptly hospitalized and advised to have a two-week stay.

The AL has information that the military may try to have the men re-arrested once again. This would not be uncommon in Nigeria where the judiciary and the military are constantly at odds. As of February 28th, their bail was still extended, but they must see State Security each day. Three remain hospitalized.

The U.S. Workers Solidarity Alliance (WSA) and Neither East Nor West-NYC (NENW-NYC) have successfully spearheaded a worldwide campaign for the AL. A week of protest at Nigerian embassies was called for February 22-26 with confirmations of actions by anarchists in Moscow, Dublin, NYC, Berlin, London, Rio de Janeiro and Hamburg. (Anarchists were ready to demonstrate in countries like Bulgaria and Norway, but they lacked Nigerian targets.) Petitions and protest letters have been received from Turkey, South Korea, Russia, Italy, Brazil, Canada, India, Estonia, Spain, Ireland, Norway, Holland, Japan, Argentina, Poland, the U.S., South Africa, Bulgaria, Germany and the U.K. Anarchist publications worldwide covered the story, and the International Workers Association and Spain's National Confederation of Labour sent $500 each to AL for legal fees.

The question of money is of special priority. Ifeanyi Nnaji, the AL's lawyer, must travel 1,000 kilometres from Lagos to Calabar, Nigeria. As of last December, the AL had a $12,000 dept for legal and other expenses. Ifeanyi is being extremely thoughtful and generous according to the AL, but his expenses are obvious and he must be paid. WSA and NENW-NYC know that over $1,000 has been received by AL from anarchists abroad and, since that helped keep Ifeanyi afloat it's no exaggeration to claim that the international campaign played a part in AL's bail victory possibly saving the lives of these men-- (you don't get fed in Nigerian jails).

Editorial Notes...

Hello and welcome to issue #8. We have changed the twelve page format to a sixteen page format, we left out lots of other stuff that we wanted to put in and decided we were going to put it in the next issue. The next issue will probably be more pages, and hopefully out on time. We have been trying to put other projects together, and have already begun to do so. We have lots in mind, so if your not on our mailing list you should try and get on it to receive more information. We decided to put a review section in the paper and review as many of the periodicals as possible that were received, or exchanged with. Also on page 5 you may have noticed the heading "Prisoner Support News..." We decided to put a section in the paper dealing primarily with prisoner support, maybe a lot of similar news as the Anarchist Black Cross.

But anyway, the last issue raised a few questions and people wrote us about the article "Bombs For Imperialism!" The main question and critic was, that we didn't mention the half a dozen deaths because of the Trade Centre Bombing. We sure do take the criticism about the dis-mentioning of the people that died as a result of the Trade Centre bombing. There was no intentions for the "just" of the bombing to be directed at the death of the people. We do in fact feel sorrow for the people that died and do not believe that their deaths were justified at all, nor do we feel that the people that experienced the occasion first-hand should have experienced it. Nor do we feel that their deaths were desirable.

When we noted in the article about justification of the bombing it was directed at U.S. imperialism and the foundations for its growth. We also wanted to show support for the people that are being apprehended for the bombing as much as possible. Considering the fact that they have been slandered as sure terrorists, and the mainstream media has been causing so much discrimination about the muslims captured that it is sickening. We believe that any form of struggle against domination and control whether it be political or personal means is necessary. The people that are living under imperialism are all an essential ingredient to mix-up a formula to create a healthy world, and when people get killed (especially by a bombing that is set under U.S. infrastructure.), may become totally spoiled, because of the lives that were taken. We sure don't want to look or sound like raving sadists! But we are strongly supportive of actions and struggles against imperialism. We wrongly forgot to mention the deaths, it did seem like it wasn't an issue worth raising to the readers, but wasn't intended. Continue the Struggle!

REVOLUTIONARY 1.MAY CONFRONTATIONS Berlin Germany

By Autonomie Forum

This year's revolutionary 1.May demonstration in Berlin was smaller than in years past. This was partly due to the fact that during preparation meetings for the action, arguments between Autonomie groups and Marxist-Leninist organizations frustrated many people and led to many people not taking part in the demonstration. In the end, the ML-groups, mostly various fractions of the Turkish Communist Party/ Marxist-Leninist, with only a few hundred followers at most, marched at the head of the demonstration, followed by an autonomous bloc of some 5000+ people.

As expected, a fight broke out almost immediately between Autonomes and the sectarian Maoists of RIM (Revolutionary Internationalist Movement), but this was soon put to rest when the RIM's sound-car was confiscated by the police. As the demonstration made its way into East Berlin, the Autonomie sound-car blasted hip-hop music and broadcast speeches by various women's groups and other autonomist organizations. The motto of the demonstration was: "For an unhierarchical and classless society - Organize the resistance!" The fact that many posters announcing the 1.May demo proudly displayed a large photo of the bombed-out remains of the Weierstadt prison and a RAF insignia no doubt contributed to the hostility of the police towards the demonstration.

Again, since many organized autonomist groups and collectives stayed away from this year's demo, the proportion of generally unorganized and inexperienced marchers was higher than usual. For example, the Autonomie usually see to it that no one drinks alcohol during demonstrations, but this year, several groups of punks brought bottles of beer along for the march. Consequently, when these (and rocks and some molotovs) were hurled at police, many people were not disciplined in their resistance to subsequent police attacks against the demonstration. Consequently, riot police often beat their way to within one line of people away from the sound-car, and the use of tear-gas and water-cannon blasts very nearly split up the autonomous bloc on several occasions. Several confrontations with police occurred during the march, which was prematurely halted at the Alexander Platz. In total, 67 people were arrested, and only a few of the 3000+ cops were injured.

At the same time as the 1.May demo, approximately 20 anti-fascists were arrested while attempting to confront 100 members of the neo-nazi FAP party who held a rally in East Berlin. A heavy police presence prevented the Autonomes from attacking the nazis (as they had done with great success in 1992), and most of the arrests occurred simply as anti-fascists attempted to reach the area where the FAP rally was being held.

During the night of May 1st, rioting took place in two Berlin neighbourhoods. In Prenzlauer Berg, a squatters' street-festival ended in confrontations with police. And in Kreuzberg, riot cops began harassing people on the streets as early as 9pm, and running battles between youths (Turkish kids, Autonomes, and drunken revellers) and armour-plated riot cops continued until about 4am. Water-cannons constantly patrolled the streets, putting an end to all attempts at erecting burning barricades. During the night-time confrontations, another 100 people were arrested, making the day's total of arrests 169, with only 19 cops injured, none of them seriously.

Although the numbers of arrests versus injured cops and the lower-than-usual number of people taking part in Revolutionary 1.May demo were a little disappointing by Berlin standards, at least the day's activities and confrontations possessed the revolutionary spirit which May Day is supposed to embody.

Herbs and A.I.D.S.

A womyn from New York had medical journals turn her way when she used herbs to help her, as she was sick with Aids. This womyn also suffered from Candida (a severe thrush infection) in her mouth and vagina, she was partially blind from Cytomegalovirus infection (CMV), a Mycobacterial infection (MAI) in her blood, Kaposi's Sarcoma, herpes and ulcers on her legs.

The hospital sent her home so she could die there (which they assumed to be almost immediately). However, six months after she was alive, up and about and feeling better. The ulcers healed, her blood infection (MAI) had gone, and the Kaposi's Sarcoma had improved amazingly. Her mother had been making herbal tea which she boiled on her stove. The tea was a Jamaican remedy made with hyssop, blessed thistle, and senna. The womyn died nine months after she left the hospital from Bacterial Pneumonia. Although its nine months she might not have had without the herbs.

Medical journals and doctors started to study and test the herbs the womyn used in her teas. They found hyssop to be a possible treatment for Hiv/Aids.

Hyssop is a member of the mint family (labiateae). It is mostly used for sore throats, colds, flu, asthma and bronchitis. It can be applied to the skin to heal bruises and ulcers. One compound (caffeic acid) in hyssop and other herbs is effective for herpes and Hiv/Aids. Do not use when pregnant.

Thistle (better known as holy or blessed thistle) is extremely good as a blood and liver purifier, to help poor appetite, fatigue, depression, and it strengthens the digestive system.

Senna should only be used for a short time, it is a laxative.

These and other herbs kill viruses and bacteria, and contain ingredients which act as tonics to boost immunity.

The combination of hyssop, thistle and senna may not work for everyone with Hiv/Aids. Other herbs (goldenseal, sage, parsley, marigold etc.) can be used. BUT you should have knowledge of the herbs you want to use, some are poisonous and some can only be used for short periods of time.

(Below) A Hyssop Plant

HOW TO MAKE HERBAL TEA:

Bring cold water to a boil.

Use a china, pottery or a non-metal tea pot. (Non-metal pots keep in full flavour and hot longer.)

Toss in herbs (leaves, roots, seeds, pods).

Use 2 tablespoons of fresh herb or 1 tablespoons of dried herb for each cup of water, plus 2 extra tablespoons of fresh or 1 tablespoon of dry for the pot. (If making 4 cups use 10 tablespoons of fresh or 5 tablespoons of dry.)

Pour boiling water in pot, cover, and let sit 10-20 minutes. (Time may vary depending on herb).

Strain herbs when ready to drink.

If your using roots, bark or tough leaves, boil with the water for 2-5 minutes and let steep for 10-20 minutes.

Usually medicine herb teas are drunk at room temperature. However, drink hot if your goal is to break a cold, cough, or fever. You can drink 1-4 cups of tea per day. (Depending on what herb being used).

Once again I strongly suggest you read about all herbs you plan to use before trying anything for medical purposes. Herbs can be dangerous if not used properly.

Prisoner Support News...

Prison Justice Day

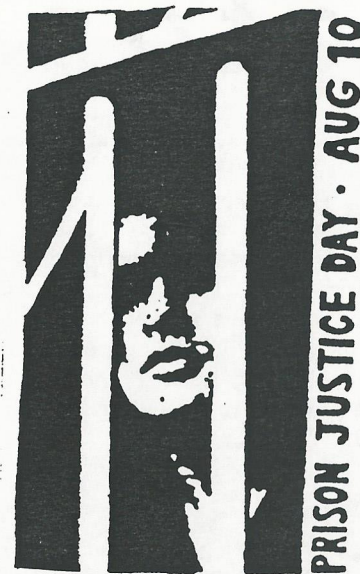

August 10th is set aside by prisoners of Canada each year to commemorate those who have died unnatural deaths in prisons. During the twenty four hours of August 10th prisoners fast and refuse to work as a way to remember those who have been murdered, those who have committed suicide, or died of neglect in prisons.

This day is also set aside on the outside of the walls to support those inside, community solidarity, events and activities will be held to arouse more awareness of the prison situation.

Though not many people know of the unnatural deaths in prison, they still occur. For example, in Ontario region Prisons in the beginning of 1992 there were two suicides and one murder. And in Hamilton and Toronto there were mysterious deaths in police cells. The suicide rates have increased drastically in Wimmin prisons, and the people incarcerated with HIV/AIDS live only half that of the people infected on the outside. These are only a small - small portion of the unnatural deaths in prison, and the people locked inside need your help. For more information contact

Sundiata Acoli Optimistic After Parole Hearing

Sundiata Acoli reported in a letter to PNS (Prison News Service) that his February 22, 1993 Parole Hearing went well. His Lawyer, Jill Soffiyah was prevented from attending the hearing, but they did accept a package containing many, many support letters from around the U.S. and beyond. Acoli thinks that the outpouring of support caused the Parole Board to back off from its plan to give him a 10 year "hit". The Hearing Board made no recommendation and sent the tape recording of the hearing, along with the parole package containing the support letters, to the New Jersey Parole Board. A decision is expected in a month or so. It is still important to send letters on Sundiata's behalf. He has been in prison since the 1973 death of a new Jersey State trooper who attacked Acoli and two comrades in the Black Liberation Army. Acoli is now 56 and suffering from tuberculosis. The state of New Jersey recently restored 2 & 1/2 years of good time, in recognition of his excellent prison record. Please write letters to:

QUEER MARCH On Washington

On April 25, 1993 about one-million people marched in Washington DC. for Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Equal Rights and Liberation. Mothers, fathers, children, friends and other family members took part as well, to show their support for all gay, lesbian and bisexual sisters and brothers.

The march took place to demand a federal civil rights bill for gays, lesbians and bisexuals. They also want the end of discrimination in custody/adoption cases, for sexual orientation obviously has nothing to do with how you treat a child. More funding for AIDS research, education, patient care and better health care was and still is being demanded.

Many Ex-military people came to express the need to end the ban of gays, lesbians, and bisexuals in the military. Dorothy Hajdys, is only one mother who came to show her support for those who are brutally bashed in the military and everywhere else. (Her son Allen Schindler, a navy seaman, was bashed to death because he was gay not too long ago.) Though we are against the military, and any support for imperialism, we believe that queer people should inherit the same right as anybody else, even if it is the military.

Ten to Fifteen anti-gay protesters from Kansas showed up to protest the rights of gays, lesbians and bisexuals. They wore t-shirts with the saying "PROUD TO BE HOMOPHOBIC" and chanting "Two gay rights...AIDS and HELL.", they proved themselves to be the assholes that we knew they are.

After the march a rally took place in-front of Capital Hill, with performances and speakers.

Bill Clinton, who was supposed to attend, but of course didn't, sent a letter stating..."I stand in the struggle for equality for all American people including gay men and lesbians." BULLSHIT!!!

The march was definitely a successful day for gays, lesbians and bisexuals! Many more marches like April 25, and other pro-queer activities need to take place so we can ensure the freedom and equality for all gays, lesbians and bisexuals. We must keep struggling for QUEER DAY EVERY DAY!!!

THESE ARE THE

BASTARDS.

STUDENTS AND STATE REPRESSION

We at Animadverse are planning to do a series of articles and information on the struggles of the people of South Africa. This will be as far ranging from community organizing to armed guerilla resistance. Our idea for this project is to show the importance of the abolishment of Apartheid and the significant actions that the people are carrying out to gain their power for national liberation and solidarity. Though we are essentially anti-authoritarian, the mentioning of some organizations that are run through authoritarian means (such as elected councils) will be mentioned, and their struggle for freedom supported. We do not believe in tearing down a government to only replace another in position. We believe people can govern themselves. If you would like to contribute to this project, all are welcome. If you have something of significance that you think should be included, send it to Animadverse. (address on back).

In Memory of Chris Hani

South African Black Liberation leader, Chris Hani, was assassinated in front of his house on April 11 1993, by a white supremacist Neo-Nazi who was said to be linked to such groups as The Afrikaner Resistance Movement, which are neo-nazi extremists who violently threaten a race war to prevent black liberation, solidarity and independence. They strongly support the Conservatives demand for a return to full apartheid and all-white rule. As well, The Wit Wolwe (White Wolves), who are a mega-violent right-wing group, who has been blamed for other assassinations of anti-apartheid figures.

Chris Hani, who was directly involved with high positions of the South African Communist Party and the African National Congress (ANC), was one of the ANC's most popular figures. His successes were evident in the mass support and direct resistance that occurred on 14 April 1993. Millions of people went to the streets to mourn the cold-blooded murder of Hani. His years of resistance in South Africa's black Liberation struggle had earned the respect, esteem and love of the largely alienated youth. The ANC's components couldn't calm the enraged youth that went to the streets. Nelson Mandela was cheered as well as booed throughout the uprising, he tried to talk to the angry youth, but soon discovered his success to communicate with them was not near as vigorous as Hani's, nor was there anybody else who could equal Hani's past communications.

Throughout the uprising and anger many people died, and many more received serious injuries. The police opened fire for no reason on the crowd that were showing solidarity and remembrance for Hani. They murdered four people and injuring well over 200. This mass-brutality and murder occurred right outside of the police station in the township of Soweto, near Johannesburg.

The mass uprising in mourn of the brutal murder of Chris Hani was just the spark keeping the fire ablaze. Black Independence and liberation is a necessity, the far-right Neo-Nazi organizations will be demolished, their proposal for a racial war will be stopped, the white-minority rule will be broken and the people will have their independence and liberation. They will never be silenced. Long Live Chris Hani!!!

The Student Uprisings

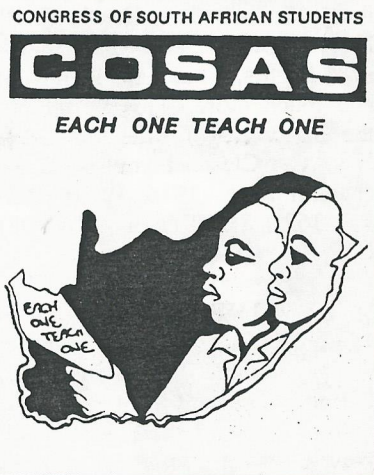

Because of Hani's mass student/youth consciousness and support we decided to give a couple of examples of the Youth and student uprisings in South Africa. Hani may not be directly involved in the writings but his spirit lives on.

1976-7

It was the inferior black education system that sparked the uprisings that erupted in Soweto on 16 June 1976. Since then, black education has been so discredited that it now serves only to further repress opposition to the government. The classroom plays an influential role in shaping their perceptions rather than their more informal roles such as parents, friends and political organizations.

The uprising started from the mass-build up of realization about the effects poor people were being subjected to by the white-ruling class. The uprising provided as a motivation to not depend on other people, but to depend on themselves. This brought more power to the youth at the time and the future ahead. Several hundred youth that were protesting Afrikaner teachings died in the confrontation while the pigs smothered them with bullets. (Afrikaner's are descendants of the original dutch "settlers" (Rapists). They speak Afrikaans and make up the majority of the white people.) After the hundreds of shootings and detentions of 1976-77, the students regrouped to study the lessons they had learned from the incident. In October 1977, the government banned nearly all the black political groups founded since the late 1960's, until a new-based organization started. The first student group was formed after the Soweto uprising, it was the Congress of South African Students (COSAS), who showed their spirit and commitment with the slogan EACH ONE, TEACH ONE. They became one of the leading national organizations in the country's Black secondary schools.

One of COSAS's first effects and threat to the system was when the security police responded and convicted it's founder of "acts of subversion", he was thrown in prison for eight years; then the entire committee spent its first year of office in prison. The COSAS's founder was active in the northern Transvaal, organizing youth clubs, producing pamphlets, establishing a discussion group called the Communist Advance Movement (CAM), and recruiting people for guerilla training. COSAS was banned

In 1984 tens of thousands of black students walked out of their classrooms and took to the streets, and stayed out the rest of the year. It looked as if the 1976 uprising would occur again, but it was soon clear that this uprising was to be far more profound and far less controllable for the state. This uprising involved more than just students, it involved workers and communities. The schooling boycott was different than the previous boycotts, this time they were experienced. Their demands were now more specific: the right to select Student Representative Councils to negotiate directly with the government, the free distribution of textbooks to all students, an end to age restrictions preventing older students from attending school, a ban on excessive corporal punishment, and an end to sexual harassment of students by teachers.

By mid-1984, the protest against the inferior and irrelevant education also widened, the boycotts raged from school to school, involving as many as 220,000 students. When the August elections came around the boycotting students had tripled. The security pigs arrested almost 200 people in order to try and break the boycott. The government didn't reply and wouldn't change. The police were still killing protesters, and on one occasion the police left thirty-one dead, hundreds injured and thousands homeless.

This brought a close examination of the 1976 uprising and the 1984 uprising; they became aware of the pigs solutions to problem solving. The youth kept up the struggle knowing that the government had not been able to stop the resistance for the years before, and the COSAS resolved to continue the boycott until they were permitted to write exams earlier, so as to avoid losing a full year of education. They started an Education Charter to spell out the Freedom Charter's demand that "the doors for learning and culture shall be opened to all".

The struggle against apartheid for the people's right to educate themselves has been a memory of state murder, and violent confrontations. The Youth/Student uprisings of 1976 and 1984 are outstanding examples of the students uniting and marching in solidarity with each other. The white-nationalist groups are one of the main causes for the mass resistance. In 1992 the racist, apartheid government declared that Apartheid was dead, and there was going to be a new beginning. F.W. de Klerk (Who is the P.M. of South Africa) stated that "Today, we have closed the book on apartheid." Now he is even trying to justify the wrongness of apartheid. He apologized and said he had deep regrets for the loss of freedom and dignity imposed on "his" country's black majority. This bastard is a lying, distorted, apartheid supporting racist. He should and will be overthrown by the people of South Africa. Education will be controlled by the people of South Africa not the Afrikaners, the youth will show their strength and the struggle for Liberation will continue, till Victory!

REMEMBER MAY 13, 1985

In Philadelphia, May 13, 1985, the police executed an assault on to a house in which its residents were part of the MOVE organization. The people of MOVE had been a long target for the Philadelphia police because of their mass position for a revolution to fight the system and their belief in harmony with nature, life and equality. MOVE are characterized by dreadlock hair, and the adopted surname "Africa" which is their main unity, and an inflexible obligation to their belief, members practised the teachings of the MOVE founder, John Africa.

On May 13 1985, the police performed a full-scale military attack on to the MOVE house, they opened fire and shot over ten thousands rounds of ammunition into the house. When they didn't succeed, a police helicopter dropped a bomb on to the house, and watched the house burn, as well as sixty others, murdering eleven members five children and six adults. There was about two-hundred and fifty people that were made homeless because of the bombing. Only two people survived the holocaust, one adult Ramona Africa and one child, Birdy Africa, they were both taken into police custody.

Ramona Africa spent seven years for conspiracy, riot, and multiple counts of assault. She was released on May 13, 1992, after serving her full term inside. She was granted parole because she refused to sign a parole stipulation saying that she couldn't associate with MOVE members, which would also cut her off communication with her family.

Remember the 8 members of the MOVE family who still remain in prison, serving sentences in which they should not be on, they are not guilty, they will be free and they will never forget. For more information on MOVE contact Animadverse.

PARTIAL VICTORY FOR NIGERIAN ANARCHISTS

Anarchist Revolutionary political prisoners from Nigeria's Awareness League (AL)--Udemba Chuku, Garba Adu, Kingsley Etoni, and James Ndubuisi--won some reprieve January 29th when they were conditionally released on bail (they must report to the state Security Service each week). Arrested seven months ago during a wave of worker/student unrest protesting International Monetary Fund (IMF)/World Bank imposed austerity plans, they were detained under the notorious "Decree #2 -- a catch-all "preventative detention" law.

At a Calabar court hearing January 25th, their lawyer, Ifeanyi Nnaji, demanded a grant of bail. On hand were 100 AL members plus, according to a February 1 AL communique, "scores of journalists, activists, members of the Nigerian Bar Association, and interested members of the public." Then, on January 29th, "we won our greatest legal battle yet ... [when for] the first time we would set our eyes on them in seven months. They looked badly emaciated, weak and sick." Setting a legal precedent poking a hole in Decree #2, the judge granted bail, and set the next court appearance for February 18th. Then, as the four left court, "there was an attempt to have our colleagues rearrested outside the premises, but this was stoutly re-

LESBIAN MOTHER'S SCARE IDAHOANS

MERIDIAN, IDAHO--Three teachers here invited a number of lesbian mothers to speak to their classes about parenting, all as part of a unit on children and parenting. This didn't sit well with the unenlightened school administration, who suspended the teachers just hours after the speakers had made their presentations. Letters of reprimand were placed in the teacher's personnel files, and they were ordered to make public apologies to students and parents. The next day, 500 students staged a lunchtime protest against the administration action, and within two weeks the school board reversed the decision. So there. info from outlines.

UPDATE ON DAVID REDWOLF

Native man, David Redwolf, went before an immigration hearing on May 14, 1993 and now has to wait at least 6 more months before its decided whether or not he can permanently stay in Canada.

David was born and raised in the U.S., but is a descendant from the Mohawk Nation, Six Nations of the Grand River Territory. He was arrested in November, 1992 in North Ontario for "overstaying" in Canada.

He has already spent three weeks in prison, has had his identification confiscated, and is not allowed to work or collect welfare.

David said in court "I'm not claiming Canadian citizenship because as Ohngwahohway (aboriginal) and Hodehushonnees (Longhouse) people our citizenship is not just limited to Canada. We are citizens of Turtle Island. We have rights to cross and recross the border, hunt and trap, and carry on commerce, and also to live here."

In 1988, (when he first came to Canada) David declared his status as a First Nations person, and was given a social insurance number.???

YOUTH PROTEST IN PARIS

In May, youth in Northern Paris took the streets to protest the series of deaths of people in police custody. Hundreds of pigs sealed off a large area of 18th arrondissement in order to try and stop the enraged youth. The demonstration brought in so many cops that it was the heaviest police presence in seven years. The youth (mostly of immigrant families) hurled rocks, bottles, smashed windows, bus shelters, phone booths, and looted stores while running from tear gas and from the charging police. Most of the commercial areas were forced to put up their shutters and close down on one of the most busiest days. Police beat youth in and outside of police vans and police stations. There were many plain clothed "hit-squad", police. (Who were jumping the youth unexpectedly) and were also charged with beating a student to death in 1986. This riot was also caused because of the new right-wing government and there massive police sweeps into immigrant areas as a part of a new campaign, promised during the election, against illegal immigration. Fuck Off...Open Borders, No Borders.

FRANCE TURNS RIGHT...

The Election for Prime Minister of France, was shamelessly given to Edouard Balladur, a right-wing, racist, xenophobe and bastard. Who ran campaigns with the Neo-Gaullist party for the Republic. This "fall in the Quick-sand" showed the continuing rise of Right-Wing oppression. The new governmental policies adopt a more nationalistic approach to immigration, trade, and foreign policy. Which means Fascism, and Fascism equals genocide. Right-Wing politicians are everywhere and trying to gain power and noticeably enough the people seem to be buying it, but we say fuck it. Fight for Freedom! Don't Go To The Polls!

FIGHT VIOLENCE WITH VIOLENCE

The picture on the front cover of this issue of Animadverse is of a Turkish Youth that was arrested by the pigs during a demonstration in Solingen Germany against the fire-bombing which killed five Turkish people. These attacks are habitual for the Turkish people, especially for the Turkish youth. The fire-bombing was obviously committed by neo-nazi skinheads.

Demonstrations and resistance went on for a couple straight days, Turkish people organized a mass-demonstration consisting of thousands of people, Leftist, Autonomists, and many others were among the crowd. Fights broke out between police and Anti-Fascists which led to around twenty people experiencing injuries and there were about twenty arrests made.

Of course this was another example of the police protecting the right-wing nazis, the demonstration was also held to look and find nazis in the street and hopefully... except for the fact that the police always protect their brothers in arms, arrested a nazi and put a search out for others, obviously to try and calm the demonstrators.

Later that night people went to the central city and smashed shop windows, looted, blocked a highway, and did all the good stuff during a rally. Over 2000 people attend and shouted NAZIS OUT and kept to the motivation to FIGHT VIOLENCE WITH VIOLENCE. The Only Good Fascist Is A Dead Fascist.
